Roman Cieslewicz

Over 150 significant works by Roman Cieslewicz, a key figure in the history of graphic design, will be on display for the first time in Britain at the Royal College Of Art as part of Polska! Year. The exhibition will include film and cinema posters produced in Poland during the 1950s and 1960s including his infamous design for Hitchcock's Vertigo, iconic magazine covers and book illustrations. In a career that bridged the Cold War division of Europe, Cieslewicz brought surrealist fantasy to the staid visual culture of communist Poland and, working in Paris from the 1963, a politicised perspective on consumer spectacle in the West. Cieslewicz studied at the Cracow Academy Of Fine Arts between 1949 and 1954 specialising in poster and display designing. After graduating he went on to work as a book and magazine designer. He has lived in France since 1962 where he worked as an art director for Vogue, Elle and Mafia.
